My Thesis	Opposing Argument
Harriet Tubman was a strong leader who led slaves to freedom and inspired both the abolitionists of her day and 20th century Civil Rights activists.	Harriet Tubman was not a strong leader. She did not have much of an impact in the time period she lived or in the years after her death.
Which argument is stronger? Why?
My thesis is stronger! History shows that Harriet Tubman helped and inspired people. Plus, if she wasn't an important and effective leader, why would the U.S. Treasury decide to put her on the $20 bill?
